Antonio Arabejo

Studying front-end development.

Oslo, Oslo, Norway

Summary

At an early age, I became an independent person. I supported my study in college as a student assistant in my school with the privilege of having free tuition fees. And at the same time, I also work part-time in a fast food chain to cover my other expenses. I finished my bachelor's degree here in Norway, doing both things simultaneously (working and studying). Currently, I am studying front-end development and a master's in theology while working part-time as a warehouse employee.
